Re: Renewed Petition under 37 CFR 1.137(b) for patent application No. 10/652,929

Dear Sir/Madame:

I am writing with regards to patent application No. 10/652,929, submitted by my late husband, N'ton Kitapini, and his brother (co-inventor), Kitoko Kitapini, in September 2003. Specifically, I would like to explain that the entire delay in providing the required reply to the Patent Office was unintentional.

When N'ton submitted the patent application in early September 2003 he was hospitalized in Detroit, Michigan, where we were living at the time. In the course of that month N'ton's clinical condition unexpectedly and rapidly declined. He died on September 23, 2003. To be quite honest, we cannot provide hard and definitive evidence that delays in replying to Patent Office requirements were unintentional. All I can say is that N'ton's unexpected and untimely death threw both me and Kitoko into severe personal crises causing not only disruptions in our immediate living situations but also, for a while, impairments to our basic emotional and cognitive stability. To put it another way, I think we both sort of died right along with N'ton and it took us a good while to come back to life. Again, I fully realize that figurative death does not constitute hard evidence of unintentionality, but this is in fact what happened.

After N'ton died I remained at our Detroit address, the one on file in the patent application, for another 10 months. In July 2004 I took a job in Kigali, Rwanda. At the time I left Detroit to take up my job in Rwanda, I confess, I continued to be preoccupied with the cascade of changes that came with N'ton's death: new financial hardships, single parenthood, a new job, an international relocation... In the process, I did not think about N'ton's patent application and my impending address change. I indeed neglected this process, but it truly was unintentional.

If I have interpreted the Transaction History explanations correctly, the Patent Office mailed its first notification to N'ton at the Detroit address 11 months after I had left for Rwanda, which approximately 19 months after his death. When the Patent Office later sent correspondence to Kitoko, the address that was used was incomplete (i.e., it was not the full address supplied in the patent application) and so he never received this correspondence either.

In mid-2007, in a moment of remembering, thinking about, and basically mourning his brother, Kitoko googled N'ton's name and, by chance, discovered a description of their patent on several commercial websites that announce new patents. It was at this time that he contacted the Patent Office to understand what it meant and what we needed to do to reactivate the application.

This may not be compelling to reactivate N'ton's patent application. It is, however, sincere and truthful. In any event, I do hope that it is enough for you to reconsider your decision to dismiss the petition. I can of course supply you with a copy of N'ton's death certificate, a statement from my employer about my overseas relocation, and any other information or documentation you may need to make your final decision.

Sincere regards,
